THE BUSINESS OF THE FUTURE will be in capable hands if the high schoolers continue to pursue their present plans. Proper foundations are being built through the efforts of the Future Business Leaders of America organization in Warren high school.

Last Thursday evening, Joseph Passaro, principal, installed the officers and Judge Alexander C. Flick, Jr. instructed the members as to the status of business in the future. In the picture are (left to right) Don Hendrickson, president; Carol Pittman, vice president; Bonnie Trembley, secretary; Gayle Nosel, treasurer; and Marga Morrison, reporter.

PLAYTIME AT WARREN HIGH NEXT WEEK. The Warren high senior class will present the play by Newt Mitzman and William Dalzell, "Books and Crooks", at 8 p. m., in the Warren high school auditorium, on Thursday and Friday evenings, November 3 and 4. Faculty dramatic director is Miss Kathryn Martin.

ley as Mrs. Gunklock. ROW II: Rodney Hampson as Mr. Burkholder; John Phillips as Lt. Shaw; Don Frederick as Francis; Dave Lopez as Mr. Henly and the prof; John Eberly as Larry; John Gahrng as Gerord.

AGELESS IN COSTUMES. Whether they are a group of young people or members of the Golden Age Society it is impossible to distinguish when they are wearing costumes in keeping with this season of the year. If you haven't already guessed, this is the older citizens' group acting "smile, please".

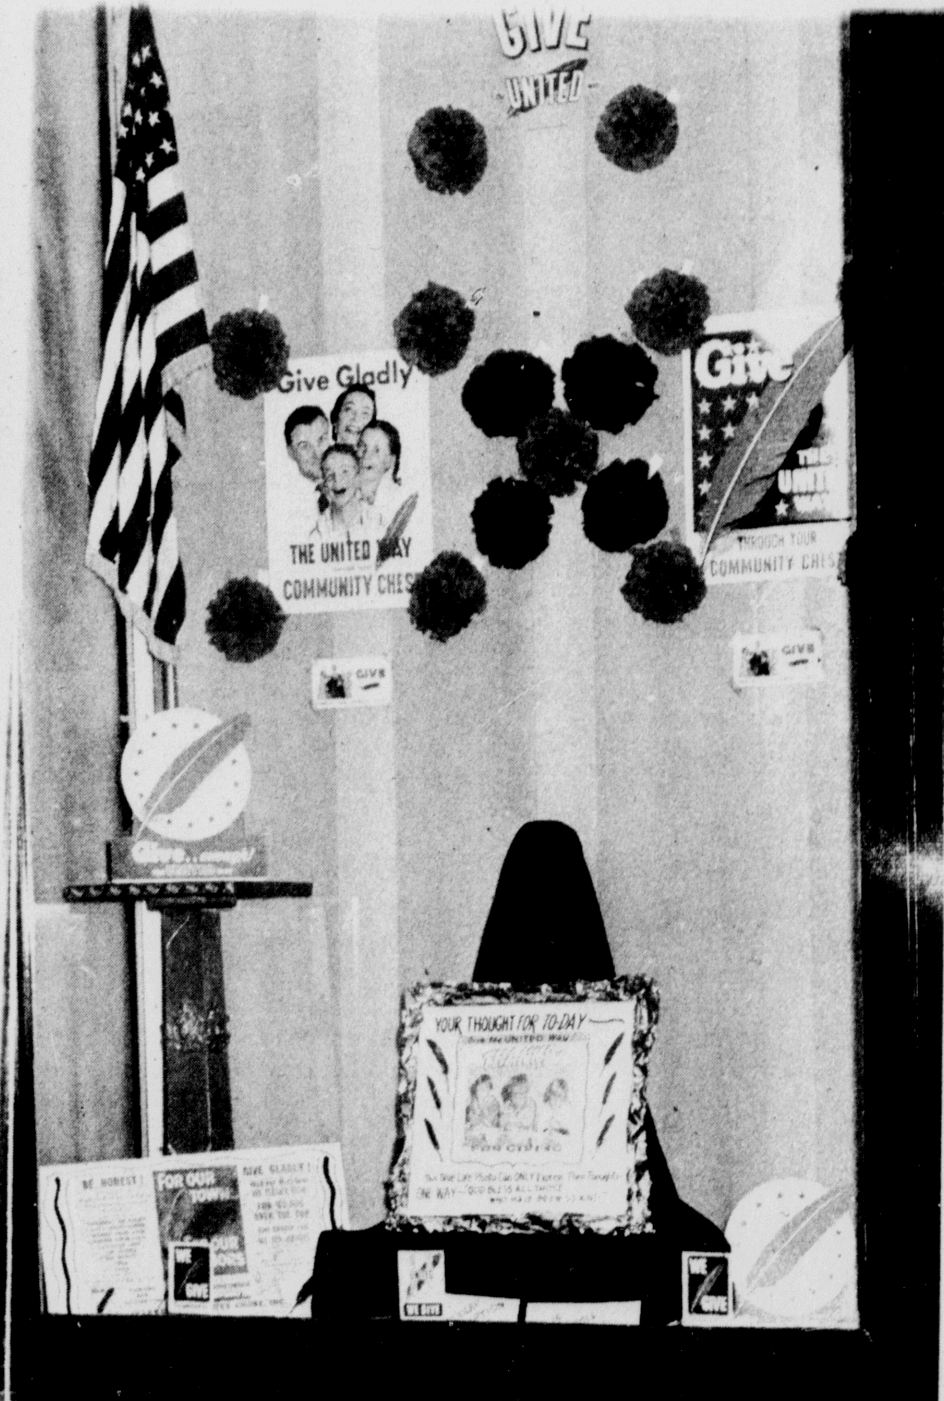

WORLD FELLOWSHIP WEEK will be observed during the week of November 13 through 19. The Council of Church Women and the YWCA will combine to present the Rev. Herman Bielenberg of Oil City as guest speaker on November 13 at 4 p. m. in the "Y" gym. He will present a Thanksgiving address using colored slides.

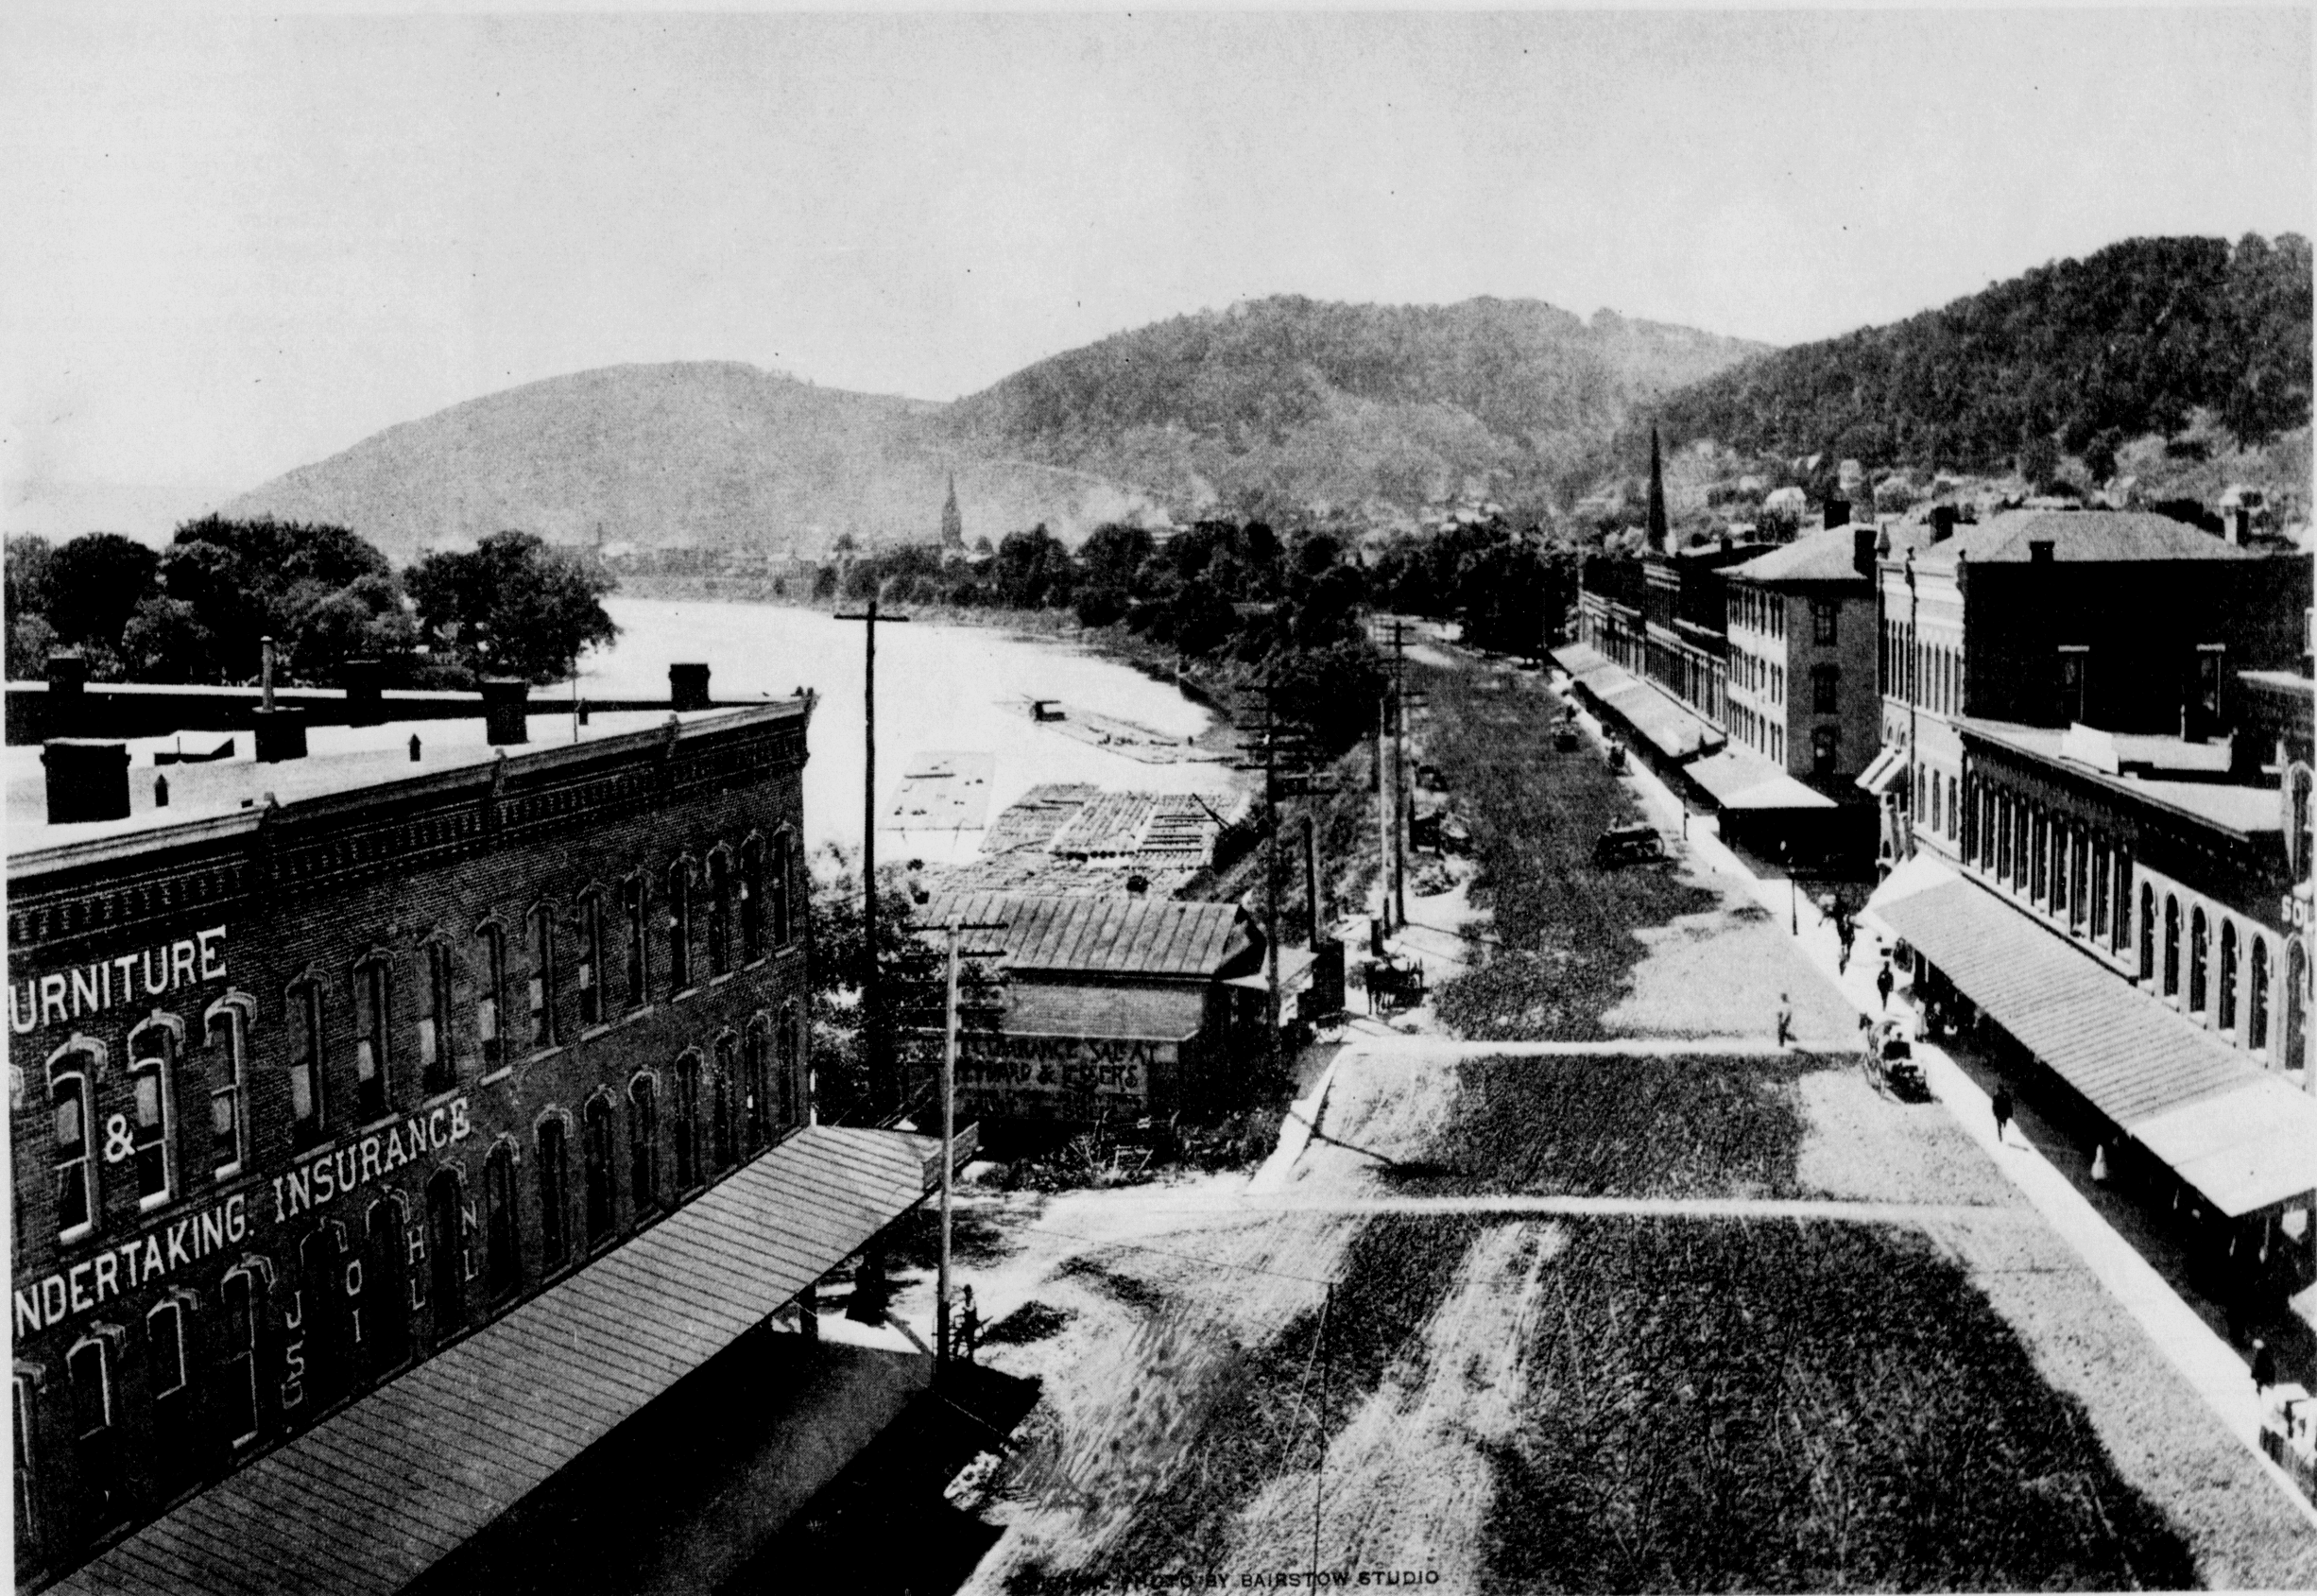

RED FEATHER WAVING PROUDLY. Here it is in red and white. We're almost there. Let's give it the extra push to put it over the $62,000 top!

If a cosmetics company can give $64,000 for answers to questions, surely Warren citizens can answer lots of questions for the sharing organizations with the $62,000 nest egg.

THE ARTISTIC URGE was given the Community Chest campaign by the display in the Warren National Bank window. Myron Munson helps us all to understand the need and dig deeper to satisfy the conscience's demand.

BETTER HURRY

With the ABC tournament being held at Rochester this coming spring, Warren county bowlers have their best chance in years to take part in the major event. But the deadline for making reservations is coming up mighty fast, at least if you hope to have a specific date. To reserve just the date and time you want, you must submit a reservation application by November 15. Your alley owner should have one and should be able to help you with it. In fact, if he is real co-operative, he might even mail it for you.

Those who feel this is not for them, should remember that there is a booster division for those teams with averages of 850 and less. There are separate prizes for these teams, and they still are eligible for the main event winnings. First booster prize is $250, and there is a prize of $100 for each squad of 40 booster teams. Also squad prizes of $75 and down.

Other events are "open", but they pay down a long way. In 1955, with 5,826 team entries, the doubles paid to 3,236 places, the singles to 6,589, and the all events to 1894.

WATCH THE EXPERTS

Every Saturday afternoon, over Channel four, there is a match between two of the big time classic bowlers. The winner collects $200 and meets another the next Saturday. The loser is eliminated and receives $100. They really spill them and you can learn much by watching carefully. But the most reassuring part is that even the action balls lose many hits, and pressing for the chips they also miss the easy five pin! Time this week is 2 p. m.

LOCALLY

Ralph McCloskey had 267 and 660 to lead the local scoring and the Industrial league this week. They were season's highs in that loop. Paul Coppola had 653 and 247 in the City league. Pete Juliano fired 602 and Tony Fazio, 600. Myer Pappalardo got a 248 game. Paul's total was a new high.

Other top scorers: Junior Industrial, Glenn Darts, 642; National K of C, Fred Aumer, 603; Commercial, Ernie Wilson, 612, and Dave Fink, 255, 607; American K of C, Tony Molinaro, 568; Ex-Servicemen's, Bill Lohnes, 545; Merchants, John Carbon, 533; Sylvania, Ray Baughman, 531; Shop, Al Gnage, 518.

THE LADIES

Barb Weiland had 219 and 575 in the Major for the big one. Vi Sterling shot 517 and Rita Miley, 507, in that league. Other leaders included: City, Vi Sterling and Red Walsh, 513, Jeannette Harvey, 506; Peg's league, Barb Chester, 200, 511; Class C, Phil Honhart, 472; Automotive, Caryl Peterson, 442; Minor, Mary Ellen Cameron, 434.

MIXED LOOPS

Ernie Wilson with 566 and Stella Wilson with 424 led the Friday mixed league. John Carbon, 520, and Caryl Peterson, 415, the Tuesday league, and Bill Mathers 476 and Janet Mathers, 438, the Metzger-Wright circuit.

REMEMBER? You may not remember the entire scene, but obviously much of it is very familiar. It reveals that many of the buildings now standing on Pennsylvania ave. in Warren have been there since 1889, and before.

Which may explain one portion of that underwriter's report on Warren which stated that there is a seventy-five per cent deficiency in fire walls and that there is a danger of block-long fires in this community.

START WITH THE YOUNG to interest the public in the beauties of paintings. Apparently that is the decision of the Warren Art Group and Mrs. Gerald Newton who were interested in explaining the artistic display to students from East St. school. The boys and girls were interested in the pictures which reproduced the everyday scenes with such clarity and profuse use of colors. The paintings are arranged for public scrutiny in the gallery of the Warren Public Library.

from a rare ailment which has caused much bleeding from the nose. Doctors are treating the condition with deep X-ray therapy. Will you drop Larry a card and wish him a "HAPPY BIRTHDAY" and a speedy recovery?

TOUGH SPOT WELL FILLED

The Warren high school football team rolls on, with seven victories behind it this season and favored to take at least two more. Perhaps go all the way. It is a good season and of course will be all that a Dragon can ask if the Red and Green is defeated. Such a victory could mean Warren's first clean slate since 1928.

We have heard much about this and about the fact that Warren hasn't been defeated since the Titusville game last year. But we have heard so little about one who is very much responsible. His name is Fred Bell.

This gentleman came to Warren as a successor to J. B. Leidig, whose record had been extolled and whose fame was legend. It wasn't an easy spot for a new coach.

The first year his team won five and lost four. The second year it was very much a one-man aggregation and won two, lost six, and tied one. Those with an understanding of new coaches said give the man three or four years to develop his own men. Came the third and Corry won the opener by a point. Franklin was edged, 16 to 14, and Titusville got by a crippled Warren club, 19 to 13. Then they started to move.

The next six teams, including the always powerful Bradford, were victims. A big Jamestown team was tied. And, as we said in the opening paragraph, they haven't been taken since, and that string includes a 34 to 6 spanking of Bradford.

This fall the boys have scored 201 to their opponents' 39, and most of the games have been about half played by the varsity. Less than half the scores have been made against the first string.

No matter what the rest of the season may bring, we want to doff a sports column hat to Fred Bell, a coach in a tough spot who apparently is doing very well. Let's not forget this gentleman. He deserves our support.

(Right now you can do it with cards. As we write this the report comes that Coach Bell has been taken to the hospital for an emergency appendectomy.)

SLOW START

The Warren high school eleven found a very well drilled and determined Ridgway team confronting it Friday night, and when the half ended the boys in Blue and White were down, 6 to 0. A very new experience. The score came in the first quarter when Allegretto, a capable T man, tossed 25 yards to Gardner who ran 20 for the score.

Hampered by a soft field, which appeared otherwise until fast-breaking plays were tried, Warren's backs went nowhere, and the defense was not getting the jump on the Elk runners. However, the boys changed to mud spikes the second half, shifted their line defense a mite, and proceeded to smother Ridgway.

Don Mohney tore off a pair of beauties and Warren was ahead, 7 to 0. Letrent intercepted a pass and it was 14 for Warren. Mohney ran 40 for another, John Powley stole a pass from the passer's hand, and it ended 27 to 6.

Close for a while, but now we can look forward to the next one, which is Kane. The Wolves are, not howling this year. They were tied by Titusville, 13 to 13 this week, and previously have been slapped by Ridgway, 25 to 0, drubbed by Johnsonburg, 33 to 7, and have a victory over weak St. Marys, 27 to 0.

LOOKING AHEAD

Two other games remain for Warren. Millcreek, which started so strong, apparently never recovered from a tough one with Girard which it won, 9 to 6. Since then it has been licked by Erie Tech, 20 to 0, tied by Greenville, 7-7, and by Oil City, 13-13. However, the Creekers may bounce back, proof of which could be seen if they make a show against a very tough Harborcreek team this week.

And Jamestown lost to Olean, 13 to 6. Last year's Olean sophomores, who were pounded by Warren, now are juniors, and going strong. This does not necessarily indicate a weakness on the part of the Hilltoppers.

IN THE COUNTY

Warren county teams continued to power 'em over. Northern Area laced Ripley, 46 to 6. Knapp tossed to Orcutt twice, to Rowland once, and intercepted a Ripley pass for scores. Rowland ran five yards, 95, and 30 for counters. Orcutt had a 95 yard sprint called back which might have been another. This Saturday Cassadaga comes to Northern, and touchdowns will roll again.

Youngsville coasted over Smethport, 47 to 0. Kulbacki scored five times, Sherwood and Letrent each got one. It was no contest. But the Eagles visit Lawrence Park this Friday for what could be a real one.

Sheffield took Coudersport, 12 to 6, in the Allegheny Mountain league action and is assured a tie in that circuit. But we believe they can take Port Allegany, Saturday, for the crown. The game is at Port. Last week's game saw Mihalko go 4 yards and Horse Johnson one for the scores.

Youngsville and Sheffield wind up their schedules this week. Northern Area, which seems a sure thing to win the Northwestern Conference, plays two more, Southwestern and Randolph.

BENEFIT GAME?

With so many good teams in the area the natural result is a suggestion for a postseason benefit game. It has been proposed that Sheffield and Youngsville face each other on the Warren War Memorial field. However, Warren has that field for two more Saturdays, and we doubt if Youngsville would want to try again against the Wolverines, whom they edged in their annual classic. Besides, it is about time to get out those basketballs.

IN THE AREA

North East pounded Corry, 33 to 12, Franklin took Union Twp., 21-13; Meadville lost to Sharpsville, 19-6; Punxsutawney beat Bradford, 27-0; Harborcreek took Academy, 32-19; Prep beat East, 26-0; Strong Vincent defeated Tech, 19 to 7, but, because of an ineligible player, forfeited its games to lose the Erie championship. This gives Prep and Tech a tie at 3 and 0, with their game on November 5 the deciding contest.

Johnsonburg edged Emporium, 7 to 0, Girard broke Fairview's winning streak, 6 to 0. Fairview had won forty consecutive games, and had five straight this year for its fifth possible clean season. It is Erie county's minor league champ.

Farrell beat Beaver Falls, 39 to 13, Aliquippa stopped Sharon, 37 to 18, and Johnstown upended New Castle, 26 to 14.

FOOTBALL THIS WEEK

Kane at Warren, Saturday, 1:30. Sheffield at Port Allegany, Saturday.

Cassadaga at Northern Area, Saturday.

Youngsville at Lawrence Park, Friday.

Small Farmer Has Been Forgotten

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON, -- Governor Harriman of New York will talk farm policy at a Democratic fund-raising dinner Saturday night in Des Moines, Ia., heart of the corn belt, where hog prices are falling faster than the autumn leaves. The interest of the occasion lies in the possible contrast between what Harriman has to offer as compared to Adlai Stevenson's farm speech on October 8 in Green Bay, Wis.

Stevenson laid an egg. Farm spokesmen have been button-holing politicians and press to complain that if his is the best the Democrats can do, the party cannot capitalize on farm discontent. Former President Truman was disappointed in it; it is widely believed to be one reason why he gave Harriman a boost shortly afterward.

Harriman is working with Truman's Secretary of Agriculture, Charles Brannan, and nobody will be much surprised to see him resurrect the Brannan Plan in some form. Aid for marginal farmers is almost certainly another Harriman proposal.

Stevenson said in Wisconsin that the farmers were in deep trouble which is true, and that the Republicans were to blame which was to be expected. What he failed to do was to communicate a pressing personal sense of urgency about the problem which would reassure farmers that he would act to help them. People in trouble are not receptive to academic discussions.

It is difficult, of course, to move into the realm of specifics without becoming vulnerable to the charge of demagoguery. Few people in either party have a distinguished record of thinking about farm problems beyond the next election.

Yet it can be done. Senator Douglas of Illinois, perhaps helped by the fact that he is by trade an economics professor, spoke to the National Editorial Association on farm policy in Chicago, a few days after the Stevenson flop. Douglas went through all the accepted motions. He sounded rather better than most because he had done careful homework on what Republicans had said, what they were doing and what actually was happening.

But he then accepted the challenge to action. Some of it was not new -- increased consumption plans, more liberal trade to build up farm exports, some system of production payments. What was new was that

Douglas is prepared to accept what all politicians know but prefer to ignore because of the pressures on them. It is that the farm problem in its present form is a problem of American poverty since most American poverty is now on the farm.

Douglas quoted a study showing that one quarter of farm price supports go to two percent of the farmers and another one quarter to nine percent of the farmers. This is a total of about 550,000 farmers.

The remaining 89 percent of the farmers, or about 4,500,000 of them, get the remaining one half of the support benefits or only what the upper ninth of farmers receive. Douglas proposed therefore a limit on grants to any one farmer of $2,000.

This has a reminiscent sound. In the Roosevelt-Wallace days, it was also suggested that the social purpose of maintaining the family-sized farm should be an integral consideration in any farm program. In the depression, however, practically everybody was in trouble and the banks and insurance companies which then held title to so much farm land helped to kill any such limitations.

All members of Congress pay eloquent tribute to the family-sized farm as the cornerstone of the American way of life. Whether they are ready to face up to the fact that it is the part of farming which needs help remains to be seen. The individual farmers are still numerous enough to be troublesome politically and Assistant Agriculture Secretary Butz who said that "too many people are trying to stay in agriculture" is God's gift to the Democrats.

OUTDOORS

JUST CAST A PLUG

Holding that hunting season back just a mite, don't forget that this is the time of year when the big ones are hungry and fishing may be cold business but also very successful. The October 24 issue of Sports Illustrated brings its fisherman's calendar page right up to our backdoor with the information that "anybody who can toss a plug has a fine chance for a ten or twelve pound musky at Cambridge Springs on French Creek or Tionesta on Allegheny River". This is followed by the letters "OG", which is a symbol for "outlook good".

ROBIN IS SCORING

The boys with the bow are scoring this year. We don't know what the official count in Warren county has been, but we can account for three deer and one lost hunter. And if we know of three, probably there were more. This won't have much effect on the deer herd excess, but it reveals that they are thick enough for a few hunters to get sufficiently close for a prick with a sharp arrow.

WHY NOT NEXT WEEK?

We note that this has been proclaimed to be Hunt Safely Week in Pennsylvania, with a proclamation by the Governor and similar formalities. But who is hunting this week? The real barrage starts next week and keeps right on barraging for a month and then on into December.

However, the idea is that we should be giving safety a real close look during this week which precedes the annual onslaught. Now is the time to examine our guns and to train ourselves and our youngsters in the safe use of these weapons.

Obviously no rabbit is as valuable as a human life. So why shoot at something just because it moves or resembles an animal? Why not be sure of your target?

All the rabbits, squirrels, birds, deer, bear, and coon you can bring home the rest of your days are not worth the life you may take if you let the excitement of the hunt to overcome your judgment.

Think about it this week. Practice care next week, and all thereafter. It is great sport if all know their weapons, control their impulses, and shoot only when the game clearly is game and is not in line with domestic animals, buildings, and, incidentally, people.

SIMPLE RULE

Never point a gun at anything unless you intend to shoot it if given good reason. Rightly applied, this thought will save you, your friends, and others from bodily harm.

THE GAME STORY

We have mentioned our prediction of the game you will find this fall. However, our range is limited to our few stamping grounds. The Pennsylvania Game Commission has the following to say about the game population:

Rabbits will be about as plentiful as last year, and in some areas they will be even thicker. And they were thick.

Pheasants also will be about the same and also will be more plentiful in some areas.

Quail are doing a come-back and are increasing on farmlands, though they are not abundant.

Grouse have not increased but are holding their own. Which means they won't be thick and those you kick loose will be heard or glimpsed and not very good targets.

Turkeys are increasing and many large flocks are reported in this area. There should be many of these big birds on Thanksgiving tables, though once shot at they will become mighty wily.

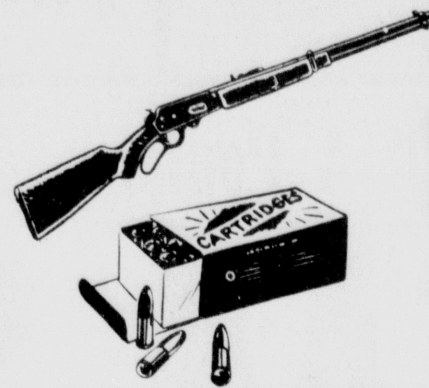

Squirrels are as thick as ever seen in the state, far more numerous than last year, and probably even more easily found than two years ago.

Raccoons are overly abundant, and the woodchucks are numerous. Given good weather, don't come home with excuses. Game is to be found and shot . . . if you are standing in the right place at the right time . . . and can hit it.

A WEE TOO MUCH?

We watched Mary Martin and Noel Coward Saturday night, and their theme song we believe was a might right, ninety minutes is a long, long time. Not that we didn't enjoy the two. They have the ability to entertain and we appreciated that fact every minute of the ninety.

But these veterans of the stage seemed to have forgotten one platitude which still makes sense. Leave them hungry!

We often have seen good performers leave the stage, radio, or television screen before we have had enough. It seemed as though a friend were leaving our presence and we wished he would stay around a bit longer.

Mary and Noel still are our entertainment friends and we still liked them when the program was over, but we wished they had made it about sixty minutes instead of ninety. That would have avoided the drag, a drag not due to their lack of ability but to our inability to fully enjoy the same faces and personalities for an hour and a half.

There will be many who will disagree. But our point is that there may be just as many who agree. They could keep both happy by shortening the program.

PROMISING BOOK

We haven't read it, but the previews suggest that some constructive good might be done by a book written by a noted surgeon, Dr. George Crile, Jr. It is "Cancer and Common Sense", and if we get the thought of the author, a fear phobia has been created by emphasis on danger signs and related warnings.

There is nothing wrong with much of this if the public will use its head, but too many people are avoiding their doctors because they are convinced they have cancer and don't want to hear the truth. Actually, in most cases they probably are suffering from a curable trouble if they get there soon enough. But many diseases other than cancer can end unhappily if we delay that visit.

This is our idea of the thought expected. The book itself of course will have much more. We believe Life magazine will carry a part of it before the actual publication date. The publisher is Viking Press.

BIG LOSS

Sheffield and all of Warren county will suffer a jolt to its musical progress soon. Loren Wright, director of music for Sheffield high school, is transferring to Kane.

PUBLIC INVITED

The fall exhibit of the Warren Art Group now may be seen in the Wetmore gallery of the Warren Public Library. Included is some work of the Pen and Pencil Pushers Club of Warren high school.

A private showing was held Friday night when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Plavcan, prominent Erie artists, attended as guest critics, and offered suggestions to help the members improve their work. They had much to say about the exceptional quality evidenced by some of the local amateurs, and their comments no doubt will lead to much improvement on the part of many. To preserve the advantages of this criticism, it was tape recorded and will be played for study at a later meeting.

HARDSHIPS MADE EASY

During the recent search for a lost hunter near Limerlost, we often thought of the suffering through which that man was living, having had some experience along that line ourselves. It is bad enough to be caught by darkness when you know the woods and can find your way out as soon as daylight comes. A night in the wilds is not comfortable at the best. For a man to whom the next day holds little but hope that others will find him, it can be mighty bleak.

Those who have spent much of their lives in the outdoors have learned to love it and to enjoy it. But everyone who so lives also spends some miserable moments. It is a part of the experience.

Within a forty-five minute walk from our car one evening we were caught by a cloudburst which in five minutes turned off the light and provided a darkness which prevented us from seeing our hands before our faces. The resulting storm raised the river seven feet and within minutes had soaked us, our matches, and all equipment.

We were not lost in that we couldn't find our way out given light, but in the pitch dark we had no chance. Try it in the center of your living room some time. It was a miserable night in which we made some headway by gaining a few yards every time the lightning flashed.

We finally settled down by huddling together, taking turns in the center position. When a peek of light showed about three in the morning we easily found our way to the road, fifteen minutes away. We had stopped just in time to avoid mixing with a herd of cows.

It was an uncomfortable night... not especially frightening, because we knew we would get out when the chance came, but cold, raw, suffering. And we have had others, such as unsought dunkings in frosty mountain streams, with many miles to go. We once cooked an entire meal with birch bark, hauled to us bucket-brigade style because every stick of timber was so deeply filled with frost.

Anyone can name similar discomforts, but we believe they are good preparations for many hardships that come along later. A bit of draft, dampness, or snappy weather does not frighten the woodsman. Discomfort is not sought but can be accepted and weathered.

The boy who learns to stay with the woods, take care of himself there in all adversities, and come out with a smile and a willingness to return, will find many tight moments in later years not quite so uncomfortable and not unsurmountable.

IT CAN HAPPEN

Again we say it can happen here. The floods in the east could have been greatly lessened if army engineer plans, long ago prepared, had been put into effect. But congress had delayed appropriations. Even as it has failed to heed similar warnings in our area. Wonder when Congressman Gavin is going to stir a little action on flood protection for his constituents in this section.

Republicans Must Turn To The Pros

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON -- There is an intriguing development as Republicans cast around for a 1956 Presidential candidate.

This is the tendency noted among some slate-makers to try to find a figure who comes, as did President Eisenhower, from outside of the ranks of politics. It is entirely natural. The only two successful bids for the White House made by the Republican party in more than a quarter of a century have been by men whose careers were in other fields -- Herbert Hoover, 1929-33, from business; and our present Chief Executive, from the Army. The Presidency was the first -- and only -- elective office held by either.

So now we see the non-political prospects paraded out. One has a double-barreled potential. In his case it is perhaps chiefly his name -- Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother. In recent years his path has been in academic fields, as college president, though before that he had a long career in government service, both in Republican and New Deal Administrations here -- but never in practical politics.

Identity with the President and the Army is the motivating factor in another suggestion, that of General Alfred M. Gruenther, close friend and confidante of the President who followed General Eisenhower as head of NATO -- a vital command post in the cold war which he still occupies.

For the businessman in the Presidential sweepstakes we are being offered Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey.

These are all able men and any of them might make a fine President.

But none has that household name attribute that induces politicians to go beyond their own confines to get a Presidential candidate. This embodies wide reputation in service that touches all our lives closely, especially in times of crisis, which applies to both President Eisenhower and Herbert Hoover, and sometimes as well an added ingredient in a warm, magic personality such as the President has.

While Herbert Hoover lacked the "Ike" quality in personality, his had long been a household name -- identified with crisis as signified in the First World War -- when he was nominated by the Republican party in 1928. He had become known to every housewife as Food Administrator and was related personally with the housewife's pride in her daily sacrifice of saving food. He won fame in the humanitarian field as administrator of relief in Europe after the First World War. He won esteem later in still another field, among businessmen, by his aggressive administration of the Department of Commerce on behalf of business as Secretary of Commerce in the Harding and Coolidge Administration cabinets. As we know, he did not fare well in a political role as President.

Another businessman nominated by the Republicans -- Wendell L. Willkie in 1940 -- was not well-known as was Herbert Hoover, but he had the "Ike" quality of personality which he got over to the American people in a short time. But nobody could have beat Franklin D. Roosevelt in that war crisis.

A Hoover, a Willkie, an Eisenhower are rare.

There is none on the horizon today.

It may be risky, but it is herewith predicted that it will be a long time before we will see another professional soldier or a businessman in the White House. As for the first, the gap this time was from Ulysses S. Grant to the commander of our forces in Europe in the Second World War.

This puts it up to the "pros," the professional politicians in the Republican party. They must rely on one of their own, it appears.

This necessity -- and opportunity -- can be the beginning of real health in the party if properly capitalized. In fact, it could be the salvation of the party which has been relying, not on itself, but on a military hero. It is concededly weakened by such coattail riding.

For government we must depend upon our two political parties which, if successful in carrying out their functions, must be able to raise up within their own ranks men who are equipped to be President. That equipment includes understanding that can only come from long actual experience in politics, the art of government. A political party can not succeed if it has constantly to go outside of the ranks of those who are at work in government, who live with it, and pick an outsider to impose leadership from the top. That may do for an election or two -- but not for long.

Astute Republicans familiar with political history recognize this.

They welcome the return of the "pros" which now seems in prospect.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

COUNTY COULD SAVE MONEY

There is one economy which might not be classified as major, but which involves sufficient dollars to be of interest to anyone involved in the job of efficiently spending tax money. We are referring to the cost of publishing legal notices.

You will note tax sales, election notices, county budgets, and similar printing which appear in the Warren Times Mirror and the Youngsville Courier. Very seldom in the Observer. In fact, we don't remember ever receiving such a notice from the county commissioners.

These notices cost twenty cents a line! Count the lines in one of these notices, multiply it by twenty, and then check to see how many times it appears. Two newspaper columns of it probably adds up to 400 lines, and some legals fill a page or two. But even the two column legal costs you $80 for each publication, and if it appears three times it adds up to $340!

Expensive advertising!

Imagine what a page or two of it costs!

Why do the commissioners refuse to ask for bids on this public printing? It is done in many areas. And the saving every year adds up to a very good sum.

And even without bids, why is it that all of the notices are channeled to the daily and one weekly? We publish four papers of general circulation which are entered as second class matter and which are legal mediums for such public printing.

Perhaps our independent editorial policy has stepped on the tender and often exposed toes of certain politicians. And because of that, no effort has been made to better spend the taxpayer's dollars?

This paper is not a medium for either party. It will take the issues as they come and will interpret them without the benefit of party labels.

In the process, some who live by political heeling no doubt will be made extremely unhappy.

The chips, of course, must fall where they may, but it is too bad that so many of them are of a costly blue complexion, and that they are allowed to be lost so carelessly by those chosen to spend wisely. It is not a small item. It does justify open discussion. You, as a Warren county resident, should investigate.

POLITICS?

This piece, of course, will be classified as politics, inasmuch as the election is a couple weeks away. If it be politics, it is not because we have a candidate to sell. But it is a good time to be dwelling on such matters, if you as an American believe in democracy and prefer to choose your officials on the basis of ability rather than by label. We believe there is no party that can do no wrong. And that goes for Warren county, too.

We also believe it is a tragedy that national party lines are applied to local politics. The issues should be debated on their own values, and local candidates should not be elected because they are Republicans or Democrats, but only because they are best suited to do the local job.

We believe local parties should be created for the local election and they should be divorced from the national theme. You easily could support the Democrat policy in Washington and abhor it in Warren county. Yet there are people who will vote Democrat because they were born such, and never will learn the difference between national, state, and local problems.

But we find a growing number of independent thinkers. Even in Warren we see signs of enlightened thinking, thanks to an influx of new faces who haven't lived in one-party areas, and to an opening of young minds which have become inquisitive through the flexible war years and the wide prevalence of informative mediums.

These independents elected President Eisenhower. The Republicans couldn't. They didn't have enough members to do it. Independent thinkers who had been supporting the new and fair deals had to swing over to make that landslide possible.

This is not a subtle way of maneuvering enough independents to the polls for a thorough rocking of the Warren county courthouse. We have friends there whom we believe are capable officials and for whom we will vote.

And if you want to be mercenary there are officials there who give us a legal now and then. But we must admit that we are happy to see only one of the incumbent commissioners running for reelection. This is not because we have anything personal against the gentlemen, but it is because we have disagreed with much they have done, or perhaps we could express it much better by saying that we have approved of too much that they haven't done.

In case this seems vague, we will mention the county library system which was laid in their laps and refused in this day of an obvious need for more good reading. And we also have pulled no punches in the past concerning what we have considered to be an exceptionally poor assessed valuation job.

Now is the time to think of these things, and to ask the candidates of both parties where they stand on these and other issues. Ask them if they believe in the library system which the Grange and the PTA petitioned them to install, and which individuals offered to equip. Ask them if they have definite plans for fairly correcting assessed valuations. Ask them if they will ask for bids on public printing. And certainly you have some peevish of your own about which you would like to inquire.

It is your money they are spending. It is your property they are assessing. Ask--then vote! And keep in mind the answers and the results. There will be other elections.

"Doing For Others" Is Y-Teens Yearly Theme

Many organizations have been formed with unselfish service as their main reason for existence. Seldom do we witness them practicing their principles to the extent displayed by the Warren YWCA Y-Teens group. In thanking the girls for what they have done we do not want to overlook the way they have encouraged the rest of the community.

It must be certain to John McCoan now that he has not been forgotten by his Warren friends. It is certainly evident that no long periods of convalescence can dim the memory of community-minded citizens toward those who have been temporarily removed from daily associations. That John's swimming accident of several months ago has not been forgotten was proven by the results of last Saturday's "John McCoan Day".

Girls of all ages responded to the clarion call for volunteers to "show John he's not forgotten". More than one hundred sold floral pieces, raked leaves, sent cards, washed cars, shined shoes, and danced that John might soon be well. Warren and area citizens were elated with the project and supported it to an excess of $300.

Then, too, it was fun -- and lots of it. Service for others is always fun because the Galilean Master once said, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you".

This is only the start. The girls are already planning for the next big project. Something for the patients at the Warren State Hospital, they're sure. Exactly the nature of the project has not been clearly defined. The huge success of their first venture will spur them on to even greater heights.

Thanks, girls, for reminding us what a community can do.

In Brief

WARREN COUNTY DEMOCRATS unanimously approved a resolution presented by Mrs. Al Fox, of Columbus, which called for the immediate construction of the long-awaited Columbus Dam. Chairman M. R. Papavero and State Committeeman M. E. Anderson accepted the responsibilities vested in them and expressed a desire "to go all the way to Harrisburg" to press the action if conditions warrant the personal appeal. Sportsmen and Columbus area residents have been aroused over published, but constantly denied reports, that the project has been abandoned by the Fish Commission.

THE LICENSING of practical nurses was discussed at the fifth annual convention of the Keystone State Practical Nurses Association held in Erie recently and to which Mrs. Sidney Erickson and Mrs. Stephen Saylor were delegates. The licensure bill has passed the Senate and two readings in the House but has been sidetracked for more pressing tax legislation. The Association is interested in forming a division in Warren County. Information may be received from Mrs. Erickson, telephone Warren 1829-W.

A STOLEN CAR was recovered following a one-car accident at the Mead Run bridge, west of Youngsville, early this week. William Roseboro, of Warren, Ohio, left the road in a blinding snow storm and struck the abutment. The vehicle was towed to Youngsville by Williams and Son's wrecker from where the report was given to the Warren State Police barracks. Mr. Williams arranged for transporting Roseboro back to his home city where Warren, Ohio police immediately arrested him for stealing the 1949 Oldsmobile which belonged to Frances and Vernon Procopio, of Warren, Ohio.

"YOUTH NEEDS THE Y" - the "Y" needs You" is the theme of the annual roundup of members which will be conducted beginning November 10. Alan H. Templeton, president of the YMCA, will serve as general chairman with James W. Potter and Francis H. Hetrick assisting as division chairmen. The membership goal is 675, most of whom will be renewals.

A FINANCIAL PIE estimated to be between $335,000 and $1,000,000 can be cut to serve 3,550 servicemen and veterans, or their survivors, if they can be located and claim their mustering out payments. The group includes those who served between June 27, 1950 and June 16, 1952 when the president signed the Korea GI bill. The time for applying has been extended to June 16, 1956 and will effect approximately 600 who were affiliated with the Air Force, 2,500 of the Army, 250 Marines, and 200 sailors.

A PRE-STATE BAKE-OFF will be held this evening (Thursday) in the Penelec demonstration center. Katy Moran, Warren County Apple Dessert champ, will compete against the best from Erie, McKean, Elk, Forest, and Crawford counties. Each girl will be recognized with a gift from the Women's Auxiliary of the State Horticultural Association who sponsor the annual event. The winner will try for state honors in York on October 29.

WARREN LIBRARIANS, Miss Georgia Spinney and Mrs. Edna Swanson, were honored by being chosen for important positions at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Library Association held at Reading, October 19 through 22. Miss Spinney was appointed a member of the development committee and acted as resolutions chairman of the association this year. Mrs. Swanson was elected secretary of the Public Library Division of the Association.

"BOMBS ON TORPEDO", in imagination of course, and an assumed arrival of thousands of Erie evacuees triggered a communications and mobilization alert in Warren County on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. with the "yellow", followed at 8 with the "red" and the "all clear" at 8:10 p. m. Headquarter's staff was summoned with the yellow alarm and nearly sixty arrived within minutes at the CD HQ.

The information was phoned out to all parts of the county. Responses were received from district units by radio. The local drill was in connection with a Western Pennsylvania alert.

A SPEECH AND HEARING THERAPIST for all the schools in Warren County will be voted upon by school directors at their annual convention in the main courtroom on November 3. Frank Johnson, who conducts a similar program in Warren borough schools, will explain how the handicapped child benefits from the service. This specialty service would be conducted by the County Board of School Directors but must first have the approval of the county convention.

Miss Fish, Adviser in special education and who is in charge of speech and hearing services in Pennsylvania, is listed on the program. Mrs. Orrie W. Maasz, executive director of the Crippled

Jaycees Sponsor Parade, Painting, And Party

The Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce is making the Halloween season worth living for the youngsters of the community by sponsoring a three-fold program. Arranged by a committee composed of Bill Farnick, John Stackowiak, Henry Powell, Ted Prodromou, Ralph Anschuetz, Don Conaway, Dave Harrington, and Leonard Johnson the program should keep Warren free of the holiday's mischief by keeping the young minds filled with better entertainment.

The urge to decorate windows of business establishments will get the official "nod" and prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be awarded the best and most original designs. The painting started on Wednesday under the direction of Henry Powell, Norman Perry and Fred Schultz.

On Saturday, October 29, at 6:30 p. m., the costume parade will leave the YMCA under the direction of Ed Lowrey, parade marshal, and preceded by the Warren high school band. The marching route will be south on Liberty to Second, west to Hickory, north to Fourth, east to Market, south to Third, west to Liberty, and back to the "Y".

A party will be held on the second floor of the "Y" immediately following the parade. Dick Bove of Radio Station WNAE will be the master of ceremonies. Prizes for costumes will be awarded in three groups; up to and including eight year olds, nine through twelve, thirteen and over. A twenty-five dollar bond will be awarded the winner, second will be $10 in cash, and third will be $5 in cash. Warren merchants will provide many additional prizes. Cider and donuts will be provided all the participants.

Children's Society, will explain how the Society expects to cooperate with the service. This year for the first time the sessions will be both afternoon and evening, rather than morning and afternoon.

FULL TUITION and living expenses are possible if any of the five Youngsville high school students are fortunate enough to be selected after the competitive examinations endured yesterday. The outstanding seniors are Jo Carol Davis, Judy Halfast, Lee Thompson, Mary Ann Craig, and Zelma Abplanalp. The winners will be selected on the basis of their ability to profit from a higher education. The program is conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, the largest independent, non-profit educational organization in the United States, which has set up grants of $20,500,000.

ANOTHER PITTSFIELD INTERSECTION accident sent eight to Warren General Hospital. For the third time in the last two weeks cars have collided due to left turns from Route 6 onto Route 27. This time, Charles Smith, of Bladell, N. Y., turned in front of Theodore Darker, of Erie, at 10:30 a. m. on Sunday, October 23. All passengers were injured and aggravations to existing conditions for two older men caused serious medical complications. Property damages exceeded $1,000.

BENEVOLENT WITCHES will knock at your door this Halloween. Many of the young people will be tricking and treating for the purpose of collecting money with which to help the underprivileged children of the world. The money goes to Unicef, a department of the United Nations. Anyone who wants to have a part in this activity in Warren may contact Mrs. Clare Proud, Jr., of the First Presbyterian church, or call the First Methodist church office, Warren 1953.

RUNNING OUT OF TREES?

Because we live in an age when we believe we can find a substitute for anything, it may come as somewhat of a shock to us when we are told that our growing population may find itself short of wood in less than a half century. With forestry management accepted today as an important part of our government service, and with large national forests to be found in many areas, we calmly go our daily rounds with the subconscious idea that the wood problem is being solved by those who know.

But it is a job for all of us, and to do it we must be informed of the facts. These include the startling revelation that we will need to increase our timber growth from 70 to 120 percent by the year 2,000 if all is to be well. This will require more production on government lands, of course, but it also applies to the private lands.

We have 115 million acres of unstocked or greatly understocked forest land, and annual losses from insects, fire, and disease are eating into present stands. Proof that the public can help in this work is the fact that so much progress has been made toward the control of fire that insects and disease outrank it as a danger.

This does not mean we can relax our vigilance where fire is concerned. Instead, it should encourage us to do even better.

All of this and more is to be found in the most complete survey of timber resources ever made. It required over three years by the United States Department of Agriculture's Forest Service, cooperating with state foresters, forest industries, and other public and private agencies and organizations.

Perhaps you would like to read a summary of this report. Wood is a major item in the buyer's future. Here are a few of the report's highlights:

1. The United States now has 489 million acres capable of growing timber for commercial use. The survey indicated, however, there no longer appears to be an excess of forest land and any substantial reductions in the acreage of land devoted to timber crops may adversely affect future timber supplies.

2. Some 115 million acres, one-fourth of all the country's commercial forest land, is poorly stocked or nonstocked. About 50 million acres will require planting if it is to become productive within a reasonable time. The study shows that over-all timber growth is increasing; on a national basis, saw-timber growth was nearly 9 percent more in 1952 than comparable growth in 1944. The review indicates that the quality of timber in the forests is declining.

3. Condition of recently cutover lands was found generally to be best on lands owned by the forest industries and on public forest lands. Condition of such lands was poorest on farm and other private forest lands. Some 4 1/2 million farm owners and other private non-industry owners of timberland hold the key to the Nation's timber supplies, the Review indicates. On the average their holdings are small; 85 percent of them own less than 100 acres of timberland each. But in the aggregate their holdings comprise 60 percent of the country's total commercial forest lands and supply a substantial part of the raw material for forest industries.

4. The Timber Resource Review shows that greatest loss in potential timber growth comes from insects, diseases, and fire. Each year these kill an amount of sawtimber equal to one-fourth of the annual growth. Insects and diseases now outrank fire as damaging agents. Much progress has been made in prevention and control of fire; a similar reduction in the toll of insects and diseases would contribute substantially toward increased future timber supplies.

5. One-fourth of the timber cut is not now utilized, according to Review findings. Closer utilization of timber and reduction of unused plant and logging residues would help to make available supplies go farther.

6. The Review indicates that greatest possibilities for adding permanently to the Nation's timber supplies lie in improving the stocking on the one-fourth of the commercial forest land that is poorly stocked; in obtaining sufficiently prompt and adequate restocking on cutover areas so as to maintain their productivity; in realizing the 8 billion board feet a year growth potential of the 50 million plantable acres; and in reducing the loss due to insects, diseases, and fire.

The present preliminary report is the latest of a series of periodic appraisals made at 8- to 10-year intervals to obtain up-to-date information on the extent and condition of the Nation's forest resources, and rates and trends of timber growth. The last similar review of the forest situation, the Forest Reappraisal, was made in 1945.

THE SHAPE OF THINGS on Beaty field were clearly depicted as a result of the snow. This gives you an idea of where the new tennis courts will be and their size. Lights will be installed later this week if the weather allows. However, the dampness has stopped hard-topping for the season unless enough successive dry days are enjoyed to encourage the contractor to do the job without fear of frost heaving.

Nationwide, the company that is built on the idea of bringing better protection to more people at less cost — has developed a low cost plan to cover a short "danger gap" with life insurance in minimum amounts of $10,000.

It's our new 5-YEAR CON-VERTIBLE TERM — ideal for new businessmen, career men, for young family men — or for any short term situation requiring a lot of insurance while you can't afford "regular" rates.

And any time before the 5 years are up you can convert this vital protection to a permanent plan.

.....can be measured, but can you tell how long
you will live ?

We all put off asking our attorney to draw a will because it does not have to be done today. The security of your family depends on it.

And in your will, name the Warren National Bank as your executor - trustee.
